Bedford Death Car

This battered, twisted mass of wreckage is the automobile in which three persons died early today in Bedford. Wrecking workers sheared the sides to get the bodies of the three occupants. Failing to round a curve on Great rd. the car crashed into a tree and telescoped. Two of the persons in the auto were Navy men and the other was a married 17-year-old Cambridge girl. Death was instantaneous. Both Navy men had served overseas and had entered the Navy together.

Oil Strike Cripples Traffic in Detroit

Detroit, fourth largest city in the nation, faced complete motor transport stagnation today as the oil industry strike continued to spread. More than 20,000 workers have joined the walkout which is tying up refineries throughout the midwest and extends south and east. The nation's over-all strike total reached 230,000.

Lumbermen stepped into the increasingly gloomy strike picture today when they announced 60,000 would strike Monday in the northwest.

More auto plants closed, among them the Dodge truck division of the Chrysler Corp. and the Zenith carburetor division of Bendix Aviation Corp.

A strike of 30,000 elevator operators and maintenance workers in several thousand Manhattan business and apartment buildings was ordered today and probably will begin Monday.

There will be no services performed by elevator operators, doormen, firemen, watchmen, handymen and superintendents.

Some 1200 drivers for six major north New Jersey bakeries struck today, tying up deliveries of seven firms.

More than a score of refineries and plants were closed by the strike of oil workers in Texas, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Ohio and West Virginia.

Ten plants shut down in Texas by the union demands for a 30 per cent wage boost and other concessions.

In Detroit more than 60 per cent of the city's gas stations were closed. Officials said all would be shut by Monday.

Taxicab companies, with their own storage tanks dry, told drivers to "get your gas wherever you can and keep going as long as you can."

All Detroit bulk oil plants and refineries were closed and tank car, boat and non-emergency truck deliveries from outside were blocked by picket lines of the International Oil Workers union, CIO.

Meat and vegetable wholesalers said they would be unable to make retail store deliveries after Monday. Milk company executives could not promise service after the middle of next week. Doctors were making home calls only in emergencies.

Mayor Edward Jeffries asked President Truman to act in the gas tie-up. He told the Chief Executive in a telegram:

"The oil strike in this area threatens to paralyze transportation . . . Give this critical situation the highest priority."

The Medical Ass'n told CIO and AFL leaders, Mayor Jeffries, Col. Harry Kelly and Washing-

TOKYO, Sept. 22 (AP)—Chikuhei Nakajima, Japan's minister of commerce and industry and the nation's leading aircraft manufacturer during the war, said today defeated Japan must re-establish trade with the United States before the bare essentials of life can be produced.

Nakajima said this list of the raw materials Japan needs as a starter has been submitted to the headquarters of Gen. MacArthur.

250,000,000 pounds of cotton
60,000,000 pounds of wool
3,000,000 metric tons of rice
2,000,000 tons of salt
500,000 tons of sugar
3,000,000 barrels of oil
3,000,000 tons of steel

All the lumber America can supply.

In return Japan can export silk and gold and articles which his nation could produce on demand of the United States, such as porcelain ware and lacquer goods.

Arrangement would have to be made whereby Japan could import the raw materials in United States ships, of course, said Nakajima, since Japan's 5,000,000 tons of prewar shipping has dwindled to 420,000 tons.

Collision Over Miami Kills 2

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 22 (AP)—Two Navy planes, one apparently in distress, locked wings and crashed into the heart of Miami's business district last night, killing two pilots and setting buildings ablaze in a two-alarm fire.

One of the planes crashed through the roof of the Tuttle Hotel garage, struck down a wall of an adjoining hardware warehouse, and set fire to both structures.

Both planes were one-man single-engine night fighters from the Melbourne, Fla., training station.

Names of the two pilots killed were not immediately available.

PAPPY RETURNS TO THE FARM—Marine Lt. Col. Gregory "Pappy" Boyington, hero flier who was captured by the Japs when his plane was lost in the South Pacific and held captive in Japan until released by U. S. troops, returns to his farm home at Brewster, Washington, where his two children, Gregory, Jr., and Janet, show the flier their baby chicks. Boyington will return to duty after a furlough.

Order Gen. Abe Arrest in Tokyo

By FRANK ROBERTSON

TOKYO, Sept. 22 (INS)—Gen. MacArthur, cracking the whip at the Jap imperial government, today ordered the empire to "apprehend and deliver" Gen. Nobuyuki Abe, and to proceed immediately to dissolve the Nipponese naval police.

Abe, former governor-general of Korea, was dismissed recently as pro tem functionary in that office by Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, commander of U. S. occupation troops in Korea.

Earlier, the Jap government had proposed to reduce the naval police to 11,269 by Oct. 31. Empire authorities wanted this force retained until all arms had been collected and turned over to the Allies.

MacArthur's reply called instead for elimination of the entire Jap naval police structure and instructed the government to place all food, clothing, arms and munitions assigned to this force under civil police guard.

George Acheson, Jr., President Truman's newly appointed political advisor to MacArthur, arrived in Tokyo today. He went directly from Atsugi airfield to the Imperial Hotel.

Meanwhile, Jap realists, cheered by the imminent arrest of Lt. Gen. Doihara, were reaching for the bootstraps of their defeated nation.

One hundred leading Jap anti-militarists, who had feared retention of the notorious Doihara in Nippon's major military field command, convened in Tokyo today. The meeting, at which the proletarian movement formally was injected into the postwar political picture, followed MacArthur's order for Doihara's "immediate" arrest.

MacArthur's arrest order did not specify charges against Doihara, who was the mayor of Mukden when the Manchurian "incident" developed into full scale war. His record is a mixture of bribery and brutality.

A spokesman for the Jap radio industry said the demand for shortwave receivers which followed removal of the ban on listening to foreign breadcasts is too great for production facilities.

A financial expert predicted that postwar taxes would be heavier than wartime levies.

Oil Strike Famine May Not Hit N. E.

The strike of oil refinery workers in seven mid-western and southern states has not affected supplies of gasoline, fuel oil and kerosene for New England and probably will not unless the strike is prolonged, executives of the industry here said today.

Gerard R. Torbey, New England division manager of the American Oil Co., said:

"At present we are not affected at all. I don't think we will be. Our supplies all come from the Gulf coast and we are getting them by tanker. So far as I can see there will be no effect here unless the local unions go on a sympathy strike."

Louis A. Meyers, New England division manager of the Socony Vacuum Co., stated:

"We have felt no effect here, although we have no large stock of gasoline on hand. I can't estimate how soon the strike might cause difficulty here."

John P. Birmingham, president of the White Fuel Co., which is the largest local handler of heating oil, said there are 74,000,000 barrels of oil in storage on the East coast. He added:

"Unless the strike is prolonged, which I do not believe the industry would permit—for labor is the smallest part of the cost of providing oil—we should not feel the strike here. There is no reason for alarm at this time. Locally we have a two-month supply of kerosene and enough No. 2 heating oil to last three months. Nobody here is worried about the situation."

Big 5 Parley Split Widens Over Red-Hungarian Pact

LONDON, Sept. 22 (INS)—The widening cleavage in the ranks of the Big Five Council of Foreign Ministers caused increasing pessimism today in diplomatic circles.

There have been no official statements which attempted to pin the blame for slowness and lack of decisions, but delegates from the United States, Great Britain and France privately expressed bitterness over Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov's insistence on referring everything to Moscow for decision.

BULLETIN

LONDON, Sept. 22 (INS)—The Big Five Council of Foreign Ministers went into conference this afternoon after the morning session had been postponed for an unannounced reason.

Rumors also persist that the delegates from the Western Powers are disturbed over alleged Russian unwillingness to compromise.

It was plainly evident today the-scenes bickering over Balkan Hungarian economic pact coming atop Molotov's Mediterranean demands has greatly depressed the delegates.

After a week of bitter behind-the-scenes brickering over Balkan questions, an official British statement today openly criticized the new five-year Russo-Hungarian economic agreement signed without consultation with the other major powers.

On the heels of this latest disagreement, the council announced postponement of today's conferences, presumably to allow a "cooling off" period.

The British press, for the first time since the council convened, expressed pessimisitc feelings in this morning's editions.

The Daily Sketch declared flatly the Big Five had failed in its first task, that of reaching common ground for discussion.

Meanwhile, the council had another headache to deal with through an interview granted by Field Marshal Henry Maitland Wilson in which the former Allied commander in the Mediterranean warned of potential Soviet world domination.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee ordered an immediate investigation of the interview which caused a sensation in official British circles.

(Wilson was quoted as saying Russia would have the atomic bomb in five years and that this would establish her unchallengedly as the most powerful nation in the world. The writer said the marshal seemed gravely concerned at the trend toward slashing the American Army.

("The United States is leaving the field alone to Russia," he was quoted as saying.

("I am very worried about the Balkans. With the United States curtailing its military influence in Europe, there is nothing to prevent Russia from becoming master of that area. . . . Stalin has said that he respects power. And he does. By making herself weak, the United States will not gain the respect of Russia. Stalin will seek to dominate wherever he can.")

750,000 Pacific GIs Home Soon

MANILA, Sept. 22 (AP)—Approximately 750,000 servicemen in the Western Pacific may be sent home by the first of the year.

Right now there are more than 20,000 men waiting in the two principal Philippine replacement depots for transportation home. Shipping is the bottleneck.

Processing time has been cut to five days, and every replacement depot is full to overflowing with men ready to go home.

There is no priority among the boys who have enough points to go home. Replacement depots put them aboard ships on a basis of first come, first served officers or enlisted men.

General, Malden GI In 10,000-Mi. Hop

Death hovered over Malden Hospital, today, and an Army corporal began a 10,000-mile air race with death from Chungking, China, to reach his mother's bedside.

It was the fastest transportation that could be found for Cpl. George Rauseo, 22, for he is winging homeward in the Army transport which is flying Ambassador Gen. Patrick Hurley and his entourage back to the United States from China.

Gen. Hurley

Gen. Hurley himself insisted that room on the plane be found for the corporal as soon as the Red Cross forwarded word that he was wanted at the bedside of his dying mother.

Mrs. Marion Rauseo has been in poor health ever since she was badly injured in an auto accident last February.

Her son, who has been in the CBI for 19 months, knew she was not well but he never dreamed doctors were despairing.

He knew she had been in and out of hospitals ever since the accident but it was not until the Red Cross reached him in Chungking that he realized the end was near.

She was taken to the hospital two weeks ago and doctors said then she could never leave there alive. They cannot seem to determine just what is wrong but they know the end is near.

On a small table beside her bed is a picture of her son George. It's the only picture the family has of the boy who has been so far away for so long.

It was stunning news for George as he sought means of getting home.

Officers were sympathetic but the only transportation available immediately was in the ambassador's plane.

That was all "Pat" Hurley had to know. He made room, just as he had made room for an embassy girl clerk, being sent home to convalesce from an appendectomy. He arranged to have the plane fitted with a hospital bed for the girl so it wasn't much trouble also squeezing Cpl. Rauseo into the huge transport.

Hurley said farewell to Mme. Chiang Kai-shek and was accompanied to the airport by Dr. K. C. Wu, Chinese foreign minister, who gave him the best wishes of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Cpl. Rauseo was waiting when they arrived.

"It's sure nice of Gen. Hurley to haul me," was all he could say.

There wasn't much more he could have said.

Any GI looks forward happily

Girl, 2 Sailors Killed in Crash

Hours after an early morning crash in Bedford which cost the lives of a girl and two sailor companions, the young victim's body was identified at a Lexington funeral parlor today as Mrs. Phyllis A. Gliesman, 17, of Putnam ave., Cambridge.

The sailors were identified soon after the accident as S 1c William Robert Campbell, 20, of High st. and WT 3c William C. Farrell, 19, of Walnut st., both Brookline.

The three had been killed instantly when their auto failed to round a curve in Great rd., Bedford, smashed into a tree and telescoped. Wreckers were forced to shear the sides from the auto to extricate the battered bodies.

There were no clues, however, to the identity of the girl and police broadcast a teletype description in hope some relative might appear.

The dead girl's sister, Mrs. Beverly Anderson, who lived with her in Putnam ave., went to Cambridge police headquarters today when Phyllis, wife of a serviceman stationed on the west coast, failed to return home.

Cambridge police recognized the similarity in descriptions and sent her to the Marshall Funeral Parlor, Massachusetts ave., Lexington, and she identified the body.

The victim, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Tamlyn, had been employed as a waitress in a downtown cafe.

Navy officials took charge of the bodies of the two sailor victims and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Boyhood pals, they had been graduated together from Brookline High School and had entered the Navy, both serving overseas.

Campbell was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell while widowed Mrs. Sarah A. Bruce was Farrell's mother.

Motorcycle accidents in Attleboro and Lynn during the early morning hours cost the lives of three other youths, while a fourth, seriously injured, was in Lynn Hospital.

Romeo Desrosier, 26, of Read st., and Edward R. Brodeur, 19, of Fontneau st., both Attleboro, died when their motorcycle skidded at a turn and crashed into a pole.

In a similar crash in Lynn, Garvin Masters, 19, of Walnut st., Lynn High School student, was killed and Richard E. Hopkins, 18, a Navy seaman, was critically injured. At Lynn Hospital, doctors said Hopkins had an even chance to recover.

BUS VICTIM IDENTIFIED

NEW LEBANON CENTER, N. Y., Sept. 22 (AP)—The body of the fourth person killed in an interstate bus crash near here Thursday night was identified today as that of Mrs. Mary Kraeer, 29, of Pittsfield, Mass.

Prosecutor Asks Death for Epes

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 22 (AP)—The prosecution asked today for the life of Lt. Samuel C. Epes, handsome young Army officer charged with slaying his schoolteacher wife for love of a 19-year-old Louisiana blonde.

State Sen. Edgar A. Brown, noted South Carolina lawyer, began the final defense argument shortly before noon.

The prosecution's two-hour summation dwelt at length on evidence linking Epes with "the other woman," 19-year-old Nelson Kingsland of Lake Charles, La.

The case then went to the jury.

Radar Reveals Hurricane Like 6

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 22 (AP)—The magic eye of radar disclosed today for the first time what a hurricane looks like.

South Floridans who rode out last Saturday's 99 m.p.h. howler had their own mental picture of the big blow, but it remained for radar to come up with a description.

"It looks like the figure 6," said Col. Lloyd Walker, staff weather officer at the Orlando, Fla., Army Air Forces center, after viewing movies of the radarscopes.

Hail Autumn!

Autumn moves in at 5:50 a. m. tomorrow and the weatherman predicted today there would be light frost and subfreezing temperatures in the cranberry bogs to greet it.

Japs Confirm Earhart Death

The last desperate hope that Amelia Earhart, Medford native and former Boston school teacher, might be alive was ended today in an official Japanese denial of recurring rumors that the long-missing flier was a Japanese prisoner.

In a Tokyo dispatch the Associated Press quoted Com. Tonosuke Otani, secretary to the Japanese naval adjutant, as saying he had made a thorough check with the home ministry, foreign office and other authorities and there was no basis for believing Miss Earhart and her navigator, Radioman Fred Noonan, were alive.

Amelia Earhart

"The last word we had of Miss Earhart already is known to American authorities," Otani said. "That was a radio message as she was approaching Howland island to the effect that she had 30 minutes of gasoline remaining.

"It is our opinion she exhausted her gas and was forced down at sea."

Ever since Miss Earhart and Noonan disappeared in July, 1937, the possibility has been suggested from various sources that they were captured by the Japanese.

Marshall Island natives reported seeing an American woman pilot being picked up by a Japanese fishing boat, but U. S. Navy officials deprecated the story.

Members of Congress have suggested that Miss Earhart may have been forced or shot down by the Japs because she had viewed their military preparations on the Marshalls.

But the government wrote finis to the search for the tawny-haired tomboy aviatrix after a Navy task force covered more than 250,000 miles of the Pacific in a 16-day hunt.

The aviators, on a world flight, had left Lae, New Guinea, for Howland when they disappeared.

Lose a Kitten?

Who has lost a kitten? A pretty little tortoise-shell gamboled around to the Boston American office this morning, looking for playmates, provender, or what have you? She was unable to give her name and address, but office sleuths deduced from her diminutive size, that she could not have traveled far.

Her owner may retrieve her by applying to Mrs. Katherine Sargent at the Boston American editorial rooms.

Malden Arrest Halts Bridal of Vet, Father of 3

Evelyn May King, 18, of North Reading, waited happily outside Malden city hall today while her fiance, Wesley D. Medaris, 31, former serviceman, of Florence st., that city, went in to obtain a marriage license.

Medaris came out without a license. He was in the custody of Police Lt. Frank Lenehan, headed for Malden court. Miss King sorrowfully made it a threesome.

Her intended bridegroom pleaded not guilty to nonsupport of his three minor children in Franklin, Ind. Judge Elbridge G. Davis held him in $1000 bail for hearing Sept. 7.

Miss King, tears in her eyes, loyally set forth to raise the bail for him.

The couple had filed marriage intentions Monday. When City Clerk John E. Lukey learned from Medaris that he had been divorced in Indiana Lukey wired authorities in Franklin to check his status.

Lukey never received an answer. Last night Franklin police wired Malden police to arrest him on a nonsupport warrant. Medaris allegedly had failed to obey a divorce order to provide $9 weekly for his children.

Clerk Lukey was telling Medaris he could not issue a marriage license until Franklin authorities answered his telegram—when in walked Lt. Lenehan with the warrant.

English High School Grad Led Savants in Atom Work

By PAULINE WARREN

Disclosed today for the first time is the news that a Boston boy, whose only academic equipment was a diploma from English High, headed one California research staff of renowned Dr. Carl D. Anderson in developing the process of controlling and detonating tht atomic bomb.

Only 24 years old but considered a prodigy in electronics, Leonard Burtman of Dorset rd., Waban, was picked by Dr. Anderson (one of the world's leading authorities on cosmic rays and atomic theory, who won the Nobel prize in 1937) and placed over a staff composed of mature men with masters' degrees and doctorates in the sciences.

Leonard Burtman

In a letter to his brother Arthur, with whom Leonard, a bachelor, has made his home since their parents died, Leonard was able to divulge his part in the development of the bomb.

"The world has termed this an atomic project," he wrote, "and talks of our now entering the atomic age. This, however, is only half of the story. Actually electronics has played a most important part. People will soon begin to realize how important the science of electronics is in our life.

"Our job was to design and develop the highly specialized electronic telemetering equipment that went into the bomb, for the purpose of obtaining all the necessary data on its performance on the way down.

"To give you an idea of the job we had: Certain things had to occur with respect to time. Other events had to take place at specific pre-determined altitudes. If these events did not occur at the instant that they were supposed to, then over 90 per cent of the power would be lost. As much as one-half of a micro-second, or one-2,000,000th of a second's delay, was enough to throw everything off.

"All the design and development work took place right in our labs on the California Institute of Technology campus, but our tests had to be conducted at either a point referred to as 'Y' or Shangri-La in New Mexico, or a spot known as 'I K' in the middle of the Mojave desert.

"Our work couldn't begin until everything else was more or less settled. As a result, we were given only six months to do a job that should have taken about two years.

"We put in an average of 60 to 70 hours a week and sometimes worked for 72 hours without resting."

Leonard was awarded the Legion of Merit by the Army, previous to his work on the atomic bomb, for his radar research in the International Bell experimental laboratories.

Oil's Well Now

Fuel oil, in case you don't remember, hasn't been rationed since Aug. 15.

GIs Land, Wave Photos of Babes They've Not Seen

Waving pictures of their babies aloft proudly for all to see, two Greater Boston soldiers arrived here today aboard the USAT Gibbins, anxious to get home for a look at the youngsters they had never seen.

Sgt. Albert Mattson of Carle rd., Quincy, excitedly said he was hoping to be out of the Army by Tuesday so he could be home for the second birthday of his daughter, Janice. He spent 32 months overseas with the Third Division.

His anxious buddy was Sgt. Antonio J. Volante of Chapel st., Newton, who said his daughter, Martha Ann, 14 months, would "be a stranger to me, but we'll fix that up quick enough."

The Gibbins brought back 2741 troops, including 176 New Englanders and 400 high-point veterans originally slated to return by air.

The high-pointers griped loudly at alleged overcrowding and poor food on the transport and the long delay in reaching home.

They complained that 700 men were forced to sleep on deck and said the principal food was soup. They claimed officers "had plenty of room" and were given the best to eat.

The troops were members of the 14th Armored Division and the 94th Troop Carrier Squadron. Also arriving were miscellaneous civilians and Navy personnel.

Another transport, the SS Lawrence D. Tyson, with 25 troops aboard, docked at Castle Island terminal.

A third ship, the SS Ambrose Burnside, with 744 soldiers, diverted to St. John's, Nfld., after developing engine trouble, is expected to reach that port shortly. She is in no danger. Troops aboard the Burnside, members of the 95th Infantry Division and Army Air Force, will probably remain aboard until repairs permit resumption of the voyage to Boston.

Red Cross Aids Navy Dad Playing Nurse-Maid to 4

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22 (INS)—Russell Spencer, 37, was assured smoother sailing today by Red Cross officials after a hectic day of doubling as a nursemaid for a quartet of little Spencers and a fireman 2c for the Navy.

Rough going for the Olean, N. Y., sailor began Sunday when he was granted an emergency furlough from the U. S. S. Callao at the Philadelphia Navy Yard to hurry home because of the illness of his wife, Alberta, 25.

Despite additional special liberty, he could not make arrangements to care for his family of five—Nancy Lou, 6; Donald, 5; Patricia, 4; Russell, 2, and Robert, 1.

So he left Pattie with his wife—who expects another child in December—and came to Philadelphia with the other four.

The children thought the trip quite a lark—especially at the railroad's servicemen's lounge—where they immediately became the pets of other sailors and soldiers who tried to wash their soot-smudged faces and straighten their wrinkled clothes.

Red Cross workers then entered the picture and contacted their Olean branch to arrange for financial and social service for the sailor and his family.

M'Arthur Orders Hirohito's Vast Wealth Bared

By RUSSELL BRINES

TOKYO, Sept. 22 (AP)—The extent of Emperor Hirohito's fabulous fortune, one of Japan's great state secrets, will be revealed to the world the first time under an order issued today by Gen. MacArthur demanding a complete report on Japan's public and private financial dealings.

The Allied commander asked specifically for a complete financial statement of the imperial household as well as its receipts thus far this year and its current budgets.

Only a few men actually know the size of the imperial fortune, commonly supposed to be the largest in the world. A four-story concrete building some 200 yards from the imperial palace houses the offices and a sizable staff charged with keeping imperial accounts. The building escaped bomb damage.

The imperial household owns stock in every Jap enterprise. Every corporation upon organizing customarily sets aside a block of stock for the emperor. This stock may be as much as 30 or 40 per cent, particularly in case of government-subsidized industry.

Youngest Leukemia Victim Dies

Science Fails, Baby Boy Dies Of Leukemia

WORCESTER, Sept. 22—Death today took blonde little "Dickie" Sullivan, 2-year-old son of Richard J. and Mrs. Sullivan of Norwood st., doomed by specialists last July to die within 30 to 90 days.

His illness—lymphatic leukemia—diagnosed by his physician, Dr. Walter Mulvihill, and confirmed by Dr. William Dameshek, Boston specialist, the boy spent several days of last week at the Boston Floating Hospital in a final effort to prolong his life, but returned home to await death.

Learning of the impending tragedy, neighbors rallied to offer aid; hundreds of letters of sympathy and messages suggesting cures, and prayers for his recovery had poured in to the grief-stricken parents from all parts of the country.

'Mutt, Jeff' Rob Keezer Store

A tall and a short gunman, resembling the "Mutt and Jeff" pair responsible for recent holdups in Chelsea and Revere, walked into the second-hand clothing store of Joseph Keezer, in Harvard sq., Cambridge, with drawn guns today and escaped with about $200.

Cambridge inspectors hurried to the scene after receiving a telephoned report of the holdup from a store empioye, who said he was forced into a back room of the store by the pair.

He was unable to say whether they went by auto or on foot when they fled after looting the cash drawer.

He described one of the pair as more than six feet tall, dark and unshaven and hatless. The short gunman, he said was wearing a gray felt hat. Both men wore leather windbreakers.

Keezer, owner of the store, is one of the sons of the late Max Keezer known to generations of former Harvard students as the "old clothes" man of Harvard sq.

F. D., Jr., and Family Settle Near T. R. Clan

WOODBURY, N. Y., Sept. 22 (INS)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and his family were settling down today in a new home not far from the Oyster Bay Theodore Roosevelt clan.

Franklin, Jr., and his wife, the former Ethel duPont, and their two sons have acquired a 28-acre estate with pasture and chicken houses.

HAAKON VISITS DANE KING

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 22 (AP)—King Haakon of Norway arrived here today to visit his brother, King Christian of Denmark, whom he has not seen in six years.

Nurses Brave Mountain Cold, Snow in Army Test

Fourteen nurses, all overseas veterans—and with pulchritude above par—will snuggle into sleeping bags on the worst-weather side of Mt. Washington tonight so they can teach other nurses the fine points of how to live and what to wear in Japanese and Central European winters.

The women have been weathering it for two days and nights, 180 feet from the summit, learning how to wear specially designed clothes for what the Army terms wet-cold countries.

The Quartermaster General's office, under which the training is being carried out, announced: "The uniform they wear is a feminine equivalent of the wet-cold uniform first worn by the Fifth Army in Italy. Its only concession to femininity is in its conformance to the lines of the female figure."

For shelter, they have tents that are little more than oversized pup tents. They arise at 5:45 a. m. and prepare their Army rations on individual cookstoves. They take a daily five-mile hike wearing the heavy clothing.

Most of the nurses have been in the service at least seven years, so did not go through the GI basic training instituted with the war. But all are veterans of living under adverse conditions.

Their uniforms on the mountain consist of layers of insulating wool garments covered by outer garments of closely woven, wind-resistant, water-repellent cotton fabric.

Two of the nurses were made prisoners by the Japs when Corregidor fell. They are Lt. Madeline Ullom of O'Neill, Neb., and Lt. Beulah Greenwalt of Rolla, Mo.

PROTESTS MEAT RATIONING

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (INS)—An immediate end of all meat rationing was demanded today by the Eastern Packers Association. Telegrams were sent to Washington officials.

FRANCE GETS LINER

SOUTHAMPTON, Sept. 22 (INS)—The former luxury liner Ile de France, used as British troopship during the war, was returned to French control in Southampton harbor today.

MORE CORN FOR LIQUOR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—Distillers may be able to resume making bourbon whisky in October as the Agriculture Department says it may spare 750,000 bushels of corn for distilling then.

INDIAN RUBBER BOARD

BRISBANE, Australia, Sept. 22 (AP)—A Netherlands Indies rubber administration has been created to hasten resumption of rubber exports from the Indies.

GANDHI ILL

BOMBAY, Sept. 22 (AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi was too ill today to attend the second session of the All-India Congress party.

Judge Redeemed, Chief Saves Day

If Somerville District Fire Chief Albert McMahon hadn't settled a fire alarm problem his own way, Judge Charles F. Gadsby might have faced an embarrassing problem in Somerville court today.

The judge announced recently that the next person brought before him for ringing false fire alarms would be sent to jail for six months.

Firemen answered a false alarm at Berkeley and Hersey sts. and found the culprits, a boy, 5, and his companion, 6. Chief McMahon delivered the boys and gave their parents a stern warning.

Atomic Future Told Wellesley By Capt. McAfee

The question before civilization, now that the atomic bomb is here, is whether its tremendous potency shall be wielded for freedom or for bondage, Capt. Mildred McAfee Horton, president of Wellesley and director of the WAVES, said today at the fall opening of chapel services.

"This summer," she told the students, "miracles of destruction have been performed. Now civilization must decide how that power is to be used. The question can be answered only by the practice of control of his own power on the part of each individual.

"Civilized man is now a citizen of the universe. The new era calls for people who know how to harness and direct their own energy."

Capt. McAfee made it known she would spent most of her time at Wellesley, with occasional trips to Washington, until a successor is appointed to head the WAVES.

Alice Birmingham, '46, of Oakwood rd., Newtonville, was one of eight girls elected to the Eta Massachusetts chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. Other seniors to win the honor were: Naomi Brenner, Brooklyn; Catherine Sears Hamilton, Oberlin, O.; Jean Harris, Detroit; Dorothy B. Jones of Bethlehem, Pa., and Patricia P. Smith, Milwaukee.

The sophomore Phi Beta Kappa prize went to Lois Wiley of Ossining, N. Y.

Windsors Soon To Quit France

LE HAVRE, Sept. 22 (AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor came back to France today amid indications their stay might be of hsort duration.

The duke intimated he intended to give up his Paris town house and his rented Riviera estate because they were "too big," and a source close to the Windsors said they returned mainly to settle their affairs so they could move out of France.

THREE OF A KIND—Triplet boys, born to Mr. and Mrs. Roy V. Bouchard of Easthampton, weigh a total of 10 pounds 8 ounces. Described by attending nurses as "beautiful babies," they and their mother (inset) are reported doing fine today. One of the youngsters will be named Ernest, after Mrs. Bouchard's 23-year-old brother, S-Sgt. Joseph Ernest Morin, who has been listed as dead following a bombing mission over Germany. The Bouchards have two other sons, Ronnie Roy, 5, and Donald, 2.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS EDITOR, RECORD-AMERICAN-SUNDAY ADVERTISER, 5 WINTHROP SQ., BOSTON 6, MASS.

A letter from a Nashua, N. H., high school girl revealed today how boys who have received Yuletide boxes in past years are returning home as living testimonials of the happiness these gifts have brought.

"I sent a Christmas box to an address last year and the year before," this girl wrote. "And I have written to the boys ever since. I never had so much fun before as I had in making up the boxes for these boys.

"I am in senior high school and the boys who left school to go into service have come back and told us how wonderful it was not to be forgotten on Christmas. So I thought I'd have some more fun this year and send another box to a boy overseas. My uncle served overseas for almost three years and he also told us how important it was."

More than 20,000 gift packages were sent last year to individuals under the plan. This year, however, with so many men in process of redeployment or being sent home, a new plan became necessary. Readers are asked to fill out and mail the coupon accompanying this story. In return, the reader will receive a label to be pasted on the Christmas box (you may ask for as many labels as you wish, according to the number of packages you desire to send).

The label will bear the name of a chaplain at a port, base or occupied area—and he will distribute, in his best judgment, those packages addressed to him.

Patton Says: Mix With Germans

U. S. THIRD ARMY HEADQUARTERS, GERMANY, Sept. 22 (AP)—Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., today declared "the best thing the United States can do is let the German people see what a great people we are by mixing with them."

Patton did not directly suggest that GIs marry German girls, however, and laughingly told correspondents at a press conference, "personally, I've got a wife."

Carriers Too Big

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—The Navy's new 45,000-ton aircraft carriers are too hefty to pass through the Panama Canal.

Confirming this today, naval sources said it is not a case of a man building a boat in his basement too big to take through the door. It is simply recognition that the canal, as a controlling factor in naval construction, is outmoded.

Tax Rebate Over Elliott's Loan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—The House ways and means committee voted 14 to 10 today that John Hartford, grocery chain president, should be allowed a $196,000 bad debt tax deduction he claimed on a $200,000 loan to Elliott Roosevelt.

With Democrats overriding Republican members, the committee by the same vote decreed the entire evidence in the investigation of the financial affairs of the late President's son be open to the public on Monday.

Wallender Heads New York Police

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (INS)—Arthur W. Wallender, deputy chief inspector, was appointed New York's new police commissioner today by Mayor LaGuardia.

Wallender has been on detached duty, serving as deputy mayor and was chief of air raid wardens during the war.

He was named to the $12,500 a year post for the remaining four years of the five-year term of former commissioner Lewis J. Valentine who resigned to take a $50,000-a-year radio job.

ton that "doctors cannot make calls without gasoline."

The strikers' union was supplying gasoline to the department of public works, hospitals, essential government services, some food agencies, emergency ambulances and the health department.

In Toledo, O., all gasoline was being rationed.

The gas shortage threatened to strand thousands of vacationers throughout Michigan and the Midwest. Hundreds of servicemen on furlough were forced to cancel plans to drive back to their stations.

Picket lines formed around the Dodge truck plant of the Chrysler Corp., with 3000 laid off. The strike of 40 foremen at two plants of the Bendix Aircraft Corp. forced the layoff of 1500 others.

The Kelsey - Hayes Wheel Co., strike-bound by a "wildcat" walkout since Aug. 23, cancelled all agreements with the UAW.

Biggest strike threat in weeks came from the Pacific Northwest, the policy committee of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers Union (AFL) in Portland, Ore., announcing demands for a $1.10 an hour minimum wage was refused and 60,000 members would strike at 12:01 a. m. Monday.

The union charged employers with failures to enter into negotiations.

Another strike threat came from New York City by the CIO Transport Workers' Union. The union said unless 500 persons were kept on their jobs at the Miami, Fla., base, a strike of 5000 ground personnel of Pan-American World Airways would be called.

Race

to home after serving in the CBI.

And it's a treat to be able to fly home in a general's plane.

But there was no happiness in the heart of Cpl. Rauseo for he knew there was nothing he could do for his mother—nothing except hope he would be there in time.

Every whirl of the propeller was bringing him that much nearer to her bedside.

But in his thoughts was the gnawing knowledge that every hum of the motor spelled out one more waning heartbeat for her.

If he could only make it!

The plane was filled with "brass" and high diplomatic figures but they were silent in respect for the corporal.

There wasn't much they could say. You can't say much to a boy when his heart is breaking.

They were hopeful, too, that he would make it in time.

It is between 9500 and 10,000 miles that the plane must speed from Chunking, over the vast expanse of the Pacific, over Wake and Midway, Hawaii to San Francisco and then eastward across the continent. There would be no delay, only occasional stops for fuel.

At home his family was waiting, just as anxiously and as hopeful that he would win the race.

They learned first he was coming home when the Boston American called.

They were grateful. They wondered how long it would take. A day or two, perhaps. They hoped their mother would hold out that long.

"We haven't told her we were trying to get him home," said his sister, Mrs. Mary Annetti, whose husband, Frank, is stationed on Guam. "We don't want her to know how badly off she is."

Two other sons, Nicholas and Michael, who was just discharged from the Army, are home and waiting for the end.

Another son, Angelo, is hurrying home from his Merchant Marine station in New York.

"We're all so thankful," added the corporal's father, Pasquale, who has a shoe store in Georgetown.

Still another son, Joseph, a Marine, is stationed at Camp Lejeune and may be able to get home. He was on furlough when his mother went to the hospital two weeks ago.

The family still is trying to find the last son, Arthur, a sailor somewhere in the Pacific. The Red Cross is helping them but they haven't been able to contact him yet.

"It's wonderful to know George is on his way," his sister said. "That was fine thing for Ambassador Hurley to do. If only he can make it in time!"

Even though his heart is saddened at the imminent loss of his mother, George has something to look forward to with happiness.

His wife, Viola, will be waiting for him, anxious to show him their year-old son, Stephen, a bouncing, healthy child he has never seen.

She and the baby have been staying at her mother's home in Tileston st., Everett, and she was almost overcome with excitement at the prospect of his early arrival.

Only yesterday she had received a letter from him, written in Chunking Aug. 30.

"It doesn't look like the war is over here as I'm still working as har as ever," he wrote. "I wish they'd get us home soon. I'm dying to see our baby and you. I only hope it won't take over a few months but it looks like it might be longer. I'm almost sure, though, that I'll be home by the first of the yar."

Their third wedding anniversary was Sept. 6.

During his time overseas, Cpl. Rauseo served in India before going the Chunking. He was attached first to an airborne ground echelon and was transferred later to the Air Force engineers.

CLUES TO BUS VICTIM

NEW LEBANON CENTER, N. Y., Sept. 22 (AP)—Identification of one of four persons fatally burned in the crash of an Interstate bus was being sought today. A string of pearl beads and a silver bracelet were the best clues.

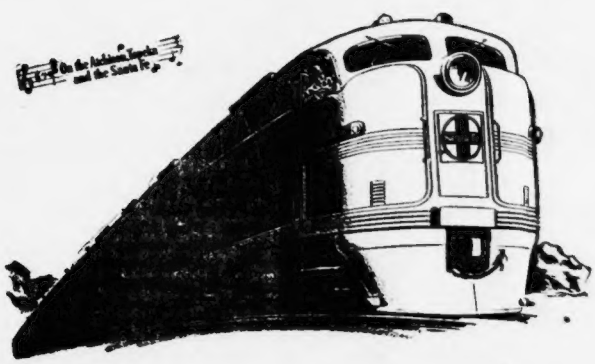
Doin' it with Diesels on the Santa Fe



Hauling mile-long freights over the steep mountain grades calls for plenty of head-end power.

Santa Fe is providing a lot of that power with the greatest fleet of 5400 horse-power Diesel locomotives in American railroading.

80 of these blue and yellow giant "head-ends"—the most powerful freight Diesels in the world—are now in operation on the Santa Fe.

This dieselization program is one of many important steps by Santa Fe in providing the most modern freight equipment for the peacetime transportation needs of America's West and Southwest.

Sloppy Joe Girl of Yesterday Now Gone From the Campus

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

TRIM, UNCLUTTERED, STREAMLINED, looking their age (Youth, 1945) and frankly themselves. This describes the feminine representation of the campus for fall. The postwar campus queen must rate as an A-1 all-around girl. The sloppy-joe of yesterday is gone and in her place is a pert, alert, world-conscious and fashion-wise young woman.

Because college girls are living in the "now," they don't have a yen for clothes of the horse and buggy vintage. They are realistic and their entire interests are centered on today. Their minds are pointed forward and this mood is reflected in their grooming, clothes and accessories.

The college girl has developed a new slant on fashions undoubtedly because she realizes the gay young fellows who marched off the campus and on to the battle ground are marching back . . . that they're tired of dirt and smells and death and want to settle down with a girl who is eternally feminine yet awake to the responsibilities of the part she and other young people must play in the future of the world.

At any rate, there is a revival of clothes consciousness among college queens . . . a healthy contest for sartorial honors. They look as pert and pretty as the models on the runway. And the clothes designed for them are as up-to-the-minute as the models which set off the figures of their sister careerists.

We've pictured some of the nicest campus garb . . . jaunty affairs that have the features of well-styled clothes . . . casuals that are smart and distinctive and which appeal to the well-organized college mind . . . to these important young ladies in the classroom, the dormitory, the "coke" shop, the prom, and even on their way to the altar . . . for they marry young, these days.

Shepherdess bodices and dirndls, both highly persuasive to waistlines and hips, have been used in some of the most delightful costumes. Plaids are intriguing and suits are wonderful because they give the young modern a groomed, well-dressed air.

LEFT. JAUNTY young suit for a junior sophisticate! The short tight fitting jacket of grey striped wool with full sleeves and the trouser pleated skirt of grey men's wear flannel with slit pockets is Claire McCardell's contribution to the American campus scene.

SCOTCH type mixture tweed in green and grey fashions this three piece suit topcoat and cardigan jacket. The skirt is lush green doeskin which also accents the jacket and makes the collar and facing of the coat. A Glenhunt model it is hailed by the Bureau of Fashion Trends.

PLAIDS are back but in sophisticated wrappings and this Claire McCardell's plaid jumper . . . which has a full wrap-around skirt and fitted double breasted bodice . . . is one of the newest and nicest. Worn with a wool jersey, full-sleeved blouse . . . the high neckline showing above the square neck of the jumper . . . it is a tempting twosome for on and off the campus.

GI Problems, Love in Europe

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: Please tell our wives and girls back home to quit worrying about German girls. Some of the frauleins from the upper classes are worth a second, even a third glance, but if they catch your eye, it's worm to you. Some of the easy-to-know type, from the food they've enjoyed from occupied countries, are 'beef to the heels.' It seems to make their idea of charming a guy, cow-like.

"There was plenty of fraternizing on the sly before we got the 'green light' to go ahead. Isn't it always that way in wartimes, human nature being what it is? (Some censoring here.) Lots of our fellows believe in taking their fun where they find it, but the fun seems pretty phony to some of them, except the saps who've chased shorts and halters straight across the country from Normandy. I've seen this type of guy go off and blubber when he didn't get a letter from his special gal at home, then blow in every cent he had on some fraulein. (Signed)—

Sheer Black Lauds Glamor

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE MOST potent of evening dress enchantresses is the sheer all-black dress, and it goes along in high marquisette or net or tulle, and the most delightful formal evening models are made from this formula. They may be lace, or marquisette or tulle, and they may be a combination of two of these fabric ingredients.

Miss Dulin has sketched a model for you, and it has very personal points. Designed by brilliant Edward Stevenson, who creates for big movie stars, it was made for Maureen O'Hara. It is black marquisette with lace bands in a leafy pattern running over the shoulders and down the dress in double Vs. The skirt is split in front over a slim black crepe slip.

Thrifty Housewives Take To Cabbage to Economize

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

THRIFTY HOMEMAKERS who are pushing pennies into that little piggy bank with a washing machine, an electric iron, or a vacuum cleaner just around the corner will take to cabbage as a natural economy vegetable. The late summer and early fall cabbage crop all over the country is adding up to the largest on record.

Good eating in more ways than one, cabbage brings high amounts of vitamin C to the table, particularly if served in its raw state in slaw or salad. It carries thiamin, riboflavin, and niacin as well as calcium, iron and some phosphorous.

A GOOD MIXER

Cabbage is a good mixer. It goes well into meat broth, stews and soups like a tasty Russian borsch. Boil it plain and serve with butter, or margarine, with a fluffy boiled potato on the side. Or pan it, or chop it and quick cook in milk, or cream it.

To keep vitamins intact—particularly the vitamin C content which is high in cabbage, and which is easily destroyed by heat—cook quickly. Panning is one method. For each quarter of cabbage shredded in narrow strips, use 2 tbsp. of fat. Melt the fat in a heavy flat pan, add the shredded cabbage, and cover to hold in the steam. Cook slowly until the cabbage is tender but not mushy. Stir occasionally.

SCALLOPED CABBAGE AND CELERY

3 tbsp. butter or margarine
½ cup chopped raw celery
3 cups chopped raw cabbage
½ tsp. salt
Dash of pepper
1 cup medium white sauce
¼ cup fine bread crumbs
1 tbsp. chopped pimiento

Melt butter in frying pan, add celery, cover and cook slowly over a low flame 10 minutes, stirring frequently; add cabbage and cook 10 minutes longer. Turn into greased baking dish, add salt, pepper and hot white sauce, top with buttered crumbs and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 15 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

For salad zest, cabbage shredded or chopped combines well with shredded carrots or grated onion, chopped spinach, celery, apples, grapes, hard boiled eggs, cucumbers, green peppers, or pineapple. Cole slaw might be served on the table every night in the week and taste entirely different every night. Here are some of the dressings which are easily prepared for lending new flavors to this easily prepared, reasonably priced salad dish.

SOUR CREAM DRESSING 1

½ cup sour cream
1-3 cup vinegar
⅓ cup sugar
½ tsp. salt

Stir sugar and salt into vinegar until melted. Beat in the cream slowly. Pour over chopped cabbage and mix thoroughly.

SOUR CREAM DRESSING 2

½ cup sour cream
¼ cup vinegar
¼ tsp. salt
½ tsp. mixed mustard
2 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce

This easy to make, uncooked dressing adds a new zest to cabbage salad. Just stir the ingredients together and let the finely shredded cabbage stand in it a while.

COLE SLAW CREAM DRESSING

2½ tbsp. butter or margarine
½ tsp. dry mustard
½ tsp. salt
¾ tbsp. sugar
1 egg
1 tbsp. flour
¾ cup light cream
¼ cup cider vinegar

Into a double-boiler top put the butter to melt. Add salt, sugar, mustard and flour, stirring till smooth. Beat the egg thoroughly and pour in with the cream. Place over the hot water in the lower part of the boiler and stir constantly until it begins to thicken. Slowly add the vinegar.

Flag Day Honors To U S. Leaders

Special to Boston Evening American

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 22—President Truman, Gen. Eisenhower, MacArthur and Wainwright, William Randolph Hearst and Atty. Gen. Clark were chosen honorary members of the American Flag Day Ass'n at a meeting in the home of President A. C. Trimble, Brookline, Pa.

The Flag Day group, non-profit, is devoted to promoting annual celebration of June 14 as Flag Day.

Leadership qualities and support of the principles of Americanism were cited as the reasons for the selection of President Truman. The three generals were picked in recognition of their work in defense of the flag. In speaking of Mr. Hearst's choice, Trimble said:

"We believe William Randolph Hearst to be among the most outstanding living Americans in support of Old Glory.

"He has given great support in his newspapers to the movements for legalizing Flag Day."

NAPLES UNREST GROWS

NAPLES, Sept. 22 (INS)—A dangerous situation was developing today in Naples as a result of the dismissal of some 30,000 Italian dock workers who were being replaced by German prisoners of war.

AND SO, My Fellow Countrymen, today I report to you that your sons and daughters have served you well and faithfully with the calm, deliberate, determined fighting spirit of the American soldier and sailor. THEY ARE HOMEWARD BOUND—TAKE CARE OF THEM.—GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR.

ODIOUS ABUSE OF POWER

OUR AMERICAN democracy, for which so many of our sons gave their lives on the battlefields of Europe and Asia, must not be defiled by dictatorial practices in Boston or any other United States city.

We make this observation after reading a news item which discloses a suspiciously Hitlerian abuse of power.

According to the news item, a disabled World War II veteran was deprived of his business telephone last June because the Boston police believed that the instrument had been used to register bets on horse races.

When the veteran asked the Public Utilities Commission to order the telephone company to restore the discontinued service, two patrolmen testified that they had found no evidence that bets had been made over this particular instrument but that they had "reason to believe" they had been made.

A deputy police superintendent declared he had received complaints from women that their husbands were losing money at the premises occupied by the veteran.

But when a patrolman was asked if an effort had been made to trace where the calls were made, he answered that he had never been able to intercept any messages.

He further stated that he and another officer had kept the place under surveillance for six months and HAD FOUND NO ACTUAL EVIDENCE OF BETS BEING TRANSMITTED OVER THE TELEPHONE.

Yet, at the request of Police Commissioner Thomas F. Sullivan, the telephone was removed.

Thus the lad who helped to win the war for democracy received little or none of democracy's protection and became the victim of punishment without trial.

It is reasonable to assume that the police did not take the matter to court because they had nothing more convincing to offer than conjectures and surmises.

Were such methods long tolerated and allowed to become an established police practice, no telephone could be considered completely safe and the commissioner would be a veritable communications czar.

We have fair-minded courts in this Commonwealth and elsewhere in the country.

Let Commissioner Sullivan, the Boston Police Department and the telephone company use them.

No law, existent or expected, gives the commissioner, the department or the company any right to exercise judicial functions.

TIMELY REBUKE

JOSEPH P. KENNEDY has struck many telling blows on his tour of the Commonwealth, but none more effective than his indictment of stagnating conservatism.

"The hardest nut we have to crack here in Massachusetts is conservatism," he said.

"We've got to get more young people into industry and business, and we've got to get them from the men coming back from the services.

"People say these boys are very unreasonable because they want better jobs than they had, but I say they're three or four years older now, and they have learned something in those years."

If every businessman, banker and industrialist thought along those sound lines, the home-coming fighters would have little to worry about.

During five and twenty years
All the clouds have silver linings
We've had laughter, we've had tears
But we haven't any fears.
I can really truly say
You are all the world to me
On our silver anniversary
Now and all eternity.
And to prove it, there's eleven
Of our little bits of heaven.

THIS "comes - from - the - heart" poem was written on the 25th anniversary of the marriage of the author to Bob Collins. Mr. and Mrs. Collins are the parents of 11 children . . . In the British Army, the mustache is very popular. Eighty per cent of the British senior officers, 90 per cent of warrant officers and 60 per cent of sergeants have mustaches. Only two per cent of the men in the U. S. Army sport mustaches. Did you ever see a U. S. Army sergeant with a mustache? If so, I'll wager one stogie he wasn't an intry sergeant.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—What is the male angle on what type of outfit makes a woman appear most smartly dressed? A—Couldn't say. Never checked on it. Probably a tailored suit that fits perfectly. That always seems to give a female a touch of class . . . Q—Have there ever been found two persons who had exactly the same fingerprints? A—Not yet. But it is not impossible. However, the chances that two such people will be found are a zillion to one . . . Q—So you claim to know London?. All right, where is the street in that city named Horseman's Row? A—Listen, when did I claim to be an expert on London? Are you trying to win a stogie from me by questionable means? Only street I know named Horseman's Row is in Dublin, Ireland.

PLEASE NOTE: The first musical organization with which Bing Crosby was associated was Al-Rinker's Musicaladers of Spokane. Bing banged the drum and sang the vocals for this outfit. Maybe you knew that. But did you know that the first horse Crosby ever owned was a nag named Zombie that he purchased at Santa Anita for $800? I often wonder what became of Zombie. I must ask Bing the next time I see him.

PASSING BY: Odette Myrtil. Dancing violinist. Is a member of the Ziegfeld Follies alumnae. She appeared in "The Follies of 1914." Her last bit was in "The Cat and the Fiddle" . . . Alvin Williams. Genial government official from Pittsburgh. Hobby is boxing. Is the author of a very interesting book titled "How to Teach Yourself to Box." A knowledge of the manly art of self defense is something every man should have. In addition to being useful in case of trouble, it increases your interest in and enjoyment of boxing bouts.

WHY BE SHORT? A Manhattan establishment claims to be able to add one inch to the height of a man or woman in six treatments. That's important, if true. Take a young man of 5 feet 6 inches in love with a statuesque girl like Alexis Smith. Or with a tall and terrific green-eyed brunette. He could add one inch by treatments and then get some height-building shoes after which he wouldn't have to reach up to kiss the light of his life.

BRIEFLY: Was happy to hear the good ship Ile de France survived the war. I made my last transatlantic voyage on the "Ile." That was when it sailed from Havre on Sept. 2, 1939, and safely negotiated the submarine zone . . . Drama scribe says Englishmen make the best actors. Nonsense. The Irish make the best actors. Name an English actor of today who is as good as Barry Fitzgerald. When did you ever see an Englishman give as good a performance as Barry did as the old priest in the film "Going My Way?"

FIRST NAMES: In our old neighborhood in Southern Brooklyn it seemed they named practically all the girls after jewels or flowers—Ruby, Pearl, Violet, Rose, Daisy and so on. There even was a girl named Carnation. Nowadays it doesn't matter what the proud parents name a female child as the chances are ten to one she will change to something else when she grows up. The feminine urge to have something no other woman has is great. So many girls are discarding the names given them by their loving mama and papa and using names they have themselves originated. This accounts for some of the quaint and peculiar feminine first names one encounters these days in the public prints.

WASHINGTON SCENE

By GEORGE DIXON

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—This being a city of magicians—look at the way Madame Perkins and her tricorne hat vanished—I think it is high time we went more fully into the vast and esoteric subject of magic!

Henry Wallace

I am in a peculiarly authoritative position to handle this because our office is still in a mess from a visit of three of the country's leading tricksters. There are puddles on the floor from a trick Miss Reid gummed up when a pitcher of water became a rabbit in her lily white claws—and enough playing cards to open three gambling joints.

Henry Wallace was not among those present. He was probably too busy trying to make those 60,000,000 jobs pop out of a silk handkerchief.

I still do not know to what I was indebted for the visit, except that I am known far and wide as a push-over for any kind of hocus-pocus. Wasn't I the one who stood wide-eyed when Speaker Rayburn banged his gavel on July 21 and the entire membership of the House of Representatives vanished?

My visitors, in the order of their disappearance, were Bert Easley, who pretends to do his magic while potted to the ears, although he is privately the soul of sobriety; G. Ray Terrell, who is so smooth and polished he glistens, and Kolma, who makes up as a Chinese mandarin, but is about as Chinese as Toots Shor, whom he vaguely resembles—without the Chinese mask, naturally.

We got into a learned discussion of magic and my visitors told me fascinating stuff about their profession.

It seems magicians are very clannish. Whenever two or more find themselves in the same town they always get together. One of the strictest tenets of the profession is that they never give away each other's secrets or crab each other's act.

"It's a sort of lodge," said Mr. Easley. "And there's a wonderful thing about being a magician. No matter where we go we have a guaranteed audience because every town has amateur magicians who turn out. Nobody is more fascinated by magic than another magician.

"We get invited to people's homes everywhere. This is very desirable these days. We get a lot of home cooking."

MR. EASLEY said doctors seem to go in more heavily for magic than other professionals.

"I think it is because it keeps their hands supple and dexterous for surgery," he said.

There were many questions about magic I had been wanting to ask for years but never had the opportunity. I wouldn't be surprised if they were the questions you've been longing to ask too.

First: Why do magicians prefer rabbits?

"The big thing is that they are noiseless," Mr. Terrell said. "They don't betray their whereabouts by squawking. Furthermore, women and children love them, but are repulsed by rats, mice or guinea pigs. Also the rabbits are docile."

So are taxpayers, I interjected. Mr. Terrell said it was impracticable to use taxpayers because they can never get used to a false bottom.

Next: Which is harder to fool—a child or an adult?

"A child," said Mr. Easley. "It is an axiom with us—the younger the child the harder to fool.

"This is because the child has no conception of logic (all magicians employ sonorous phrases). The child does not think in symbols; his thinking is direct and objective. For instance, if an adult sees me put a rubber ball in a box his sense of logic tells him the ball is still in the box. But the child does not assume the ball is in the box just because I seemed to put it there. Unless he can see the ball in the box he is not convinced it is there.

"And it is impossible to fool the child with misleading patter because he does not understand what you are saying. Furthermore, the child has no appreciation of sleight of hand because he has no manual dexterity himself."

I asked Mr. Easley if he thought Secretary Ickes could fool a kid with his "Now there's fuel oil, now there ain't," but he said he did not wish to become involved with Mr. Ickes.

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

Copyright, 1945, King Features Synd., Inc.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—Paulette Goddard isn't feeling up to par. She and Burgess Meredith have cancelled all interviews and publicity stunts for the forthcoming "GI Joe" . . . Broadway producer Dave Wolper is courting Judith Baker, a Cleveland heiress who's studying dramatics in N. Y. . . . Hannah Williams (ex-Mrs. Jack Dempsey) is rehearsing for a new singing engagement . . . I don't know whether Greta Garbo, of the Cherry Grove sector, got her vote in, but anyway Earl Blackwell of Celebrity Service, has just been elected Mayor of Fire Island . . . Simone Simon, out of town with the Shubert show "Emily," is having trouble with actors in the cast who don't give her "the right inspiration" . . . Fritzi Denker, the blonde Diamond Horseshoe beauty, and her groom, Bob Tutone, have kissed and cancelled the annulment papers . . . Bunty Pendleton opens the Madison Cafe as a late spot with an innovation—the old hymn, "Rock of Ages," sung as a ballad (not a swing version) . . . M-G-M sent scouts to look over "Miss America" contestants, but no star material was unearthed . . . Experts figure that one out of every three bachelor GI's returning from the wars will take a bride as soon as he dons civilian clothes.

Paulette Goddard

* * *

MARLENE DIETRICH'S Paris plans include the making of a French language film . . . Dancer Steve Condos, who recently came to an amicable parting of the professional ways with his brother Nick, is joining Woody Herman's band as a trumpeter. He'll also do a specialty dance with Woody, who used to be a hoofer . . . The Aquadium's producer, Elliot Murphy, is honeymooning with Jo Wilson . . . Add funny remarks: Milton Berle calls Lee Shubert's office Begginghan Palace . . . Dick Foran was the lad who stepped out with Georgette Walters just before she hopped the train for Reno to get a divorce from her Wall st. biggie . . . Martin Gabel's show, "The Assassin," has aroused film interest already . . . Billy Rose is planning to bring back Sally Rand in an opus entitled (is he kidding?) "Bubbles or Nothing" . . . They say the settlement in the Johnny Weissmuller divorce was $250,000 . . . What with the new trend in geographical names (example: Temple Texas and and Nevada Smith), I suppose any day now all the Monicas will be changing their monickers to Santa Monica . . . Blonde Irene Morgan, of the Havana Madrid, has notified her spouse—tunesmith Seegar Ellis, recently of the Harry James band—that she wants a residence in Reno.

* * *

ANOTHER VICTORY: U. S. Air Corps Pvt. Bob Oliver won a "yes" from Conover model Dorothy Gardiner . . . Belle Baker, currently the Latin Quarter's star attraction, is contemplating a non-singing role in a legitimate play . . . Long-hair music circles are atwitter over the unconventional plight of a dignified conductor and his beautiful showgirl inamorata. It couldn't be more unconventional . . . International Pix admits that the dinner dress Claudette Colbert designed for herself in "Tomorrow Is Forever," cost $10,000—or the price of several limousines . . . There is a rather interesting gleesome-threesome movement afoot. It could have been observed at Leon & Eddie's the other night when comedian Gene Sheldon arrived squiring both his wife and his ex-wife, and all three stayed until curfew time in the merriest of moods. The same cafe saw former ring champ Abe Attell, his wife and his former wife, dining a trois just a few evenings before . . . All the Florida tradespeople are pittering and trembling at the prospect of being subpoenaed in the divorce proceedings just being instituted by her husband against a canary.

UM-KUM-M- WERE IT NOT FOR MY RETIRING NATURE AND SHYNESS FROM THE SPOTLIGHT OF PUBLICITY AND WORLD ACCLAIM, YOU AND MILLIONS OF OTHERS WOULD ASSOCIATE THE NAME OF PROFESSOR PUFFLE AS A PIONEER IN EXPERIMENTING WITH ATOMS?-- I SOUGHT NEITHER WEALTH NOR FAME!
THIS MOGUL OF WAHOO TOPS ANY BLOW HARD I'VE MET!
NOW LETS GET BACK TO THE START---WHAT IS AN ATOM?

Hollywood

By Dorothy Manners

Pinch-Hitting for Loucila O. Parsons, Who Is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22—For the next five years Frank Sinatra belongs body and bones to M-G-M. In one of the most unusual contracts drawn in Hollywood, Frankie gets a straight five-year deal which gives him some of the best acting as well as singing roles. "Anchors Aweigh," plus Sinatra's great personal pull, of course, turned the trick. Gene Kelly's dancing may have stolen most of the critical thunder in "Anchor" but you can bet a bushel that Sinatra's name dragged them in.

HENRY FONDA and 20th Century-Fox have not parted permanently. Hank asked for his release, but agreed to make a picture a year for the old home team. Meanwhile, he is free to go ahead with his independent plans in the following setup: I hear Fonda and Robert Golden will co-produce the radio show "Queen for a Day," with Hank in the male starring role. The idea is so far along Harold Schuster has been signed to direct.

* * *

THOSE SAD TEARS glistening in the orbs of Burl Ives are because he's been kicked out bodily—all 270 pounds of him—from that elite publication, "The Hoboes of America." In a short note directed to the ballad singer at 20th, he was informed by Neil J. Brownlee, recording secretary of the hoboes' Blue Book: "You are accused and found guilty of steady work! In accordance with the rules of this organization we renounce you forever. In a nutshell, you didn't bum enough miles last year!" To which Burl cries, "And to think of all those years I devoted to trying to be a bum forever!"

* * *

BETWEEN US: After so many years of calling it "The Hays Office," how are we to get used to saying "The Johnston Office?" . . . Irv Kupcinet wires from Chicago that Jane Bryan and her husband, Justin Dart, are moving to Hollywood, with Dart switching his drug company's headquarters from Boston to Los Angeles. Wonder if this means Jane will resume her screen career at Warner's? . . . Col. James Warren, vice-president of the Derby Cafes, is back on the job after three years of supervising commissaries all over the world for our Air Corps . . . Cesar Romero finishes his Latin lovin' in "Three Little Girls in Blue" and then continues his Latin lovin' in "City of Flowers," 20th's Technicolor splash, to be filmed in Costa Rica. Cesar leaves with the Bill Bacher company next month.

WHEN THEY want something done for a good cause in this town it's getting to be a case of "Let Mervyn Do It!" Mervyn Le Roy is rapidly becoming the man who is always there when they need someone to stage and produce a whopper show any hour of the day or night. It was Merv behind the scenes of the Los Angeles welcome for Doolittle and Patton at the Coliseum. He's staging the big shindig today at the Bowl for the war wounded. And now he has been asked by Mayor Bowron to put on the victory show at the Coliseum on the 27th at which Adm. Halsey is expected to be a guest. There's no personal glory for Le Roy in any of this, so how about a little "thank you?"

* * *

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS: It's on again with Martha Stewart and Joe E. Lewis. He just sent her the official sparkler and they'll be married when she finishes "Doll Face"; Walter Brennan becomes a grandpa in December. His son, Michael, and his wife are expecting; Eddie Sutherland's new Beverly Club got off to a beeg first night even with the Shirley Temple wedding for guest competition. Clark Gable stagged it—to the club, not the wedding—which is an awful waste of escort power.

George Holland

Boston After Dark

CHATTER: For the record, the USS Sutherland was the first combat ship of the Navy to enter Tokyo Bay . . . I hope the milliners won't be angry about this bit of real news, but the fact is that many New York women of the haut monde are going hatless rather than wear the new designs in headwear . . . All hatless at New York's Colony Club were Annabelle, Miriam Hopkins, Mrs. Harry (Louise Macy) Hopkins and Mrs. Harrison Wilhams . . . At the Pavillon—and for luncheon at that—half the femmes were bareheaded.

* * *

THE "INSIDE" is said to be this: Paris designers thought up models for chapeaux before the Heinies had given up, and in the expectation that the best customers again would be the free-spending German women . . . So the hats were made heavy, fat, wide and tall—but really heavy . . . American women simply did not take to the styles.

* * *

SOPHIE TUCKER SHOULD PAY at least one visit while in town to her devoted admirer and No. 1 Boston fan, Douglas Flynn, who signs himself "Waiter No. 5, Fox and Hounds Club" . . . Douglas bought 50 copies of Sophie's book "Some of These Days" and is distributing them as gifts to his best customers . . . Sophie is jam packing the The Maytair . . . Business is jumping in most of the good spots, but the Tucker business is phenomenal.

* * *

Recommended: Copecy and Ayer, the great dance team we raved about early this season when they were playing on the bill with Carl Brisson at the Versailles, N. Y. . . . They are at the Bradford Roof . . . Mr. Brisson, by the way, returns to the Versailles Oct. 3 but on his own without a floor show or chorus . . . Carl says he is worried at the risk involved . . . But it makes him one of these "one-man" shows like Hildegarde and no crack intended . . . There are only a few extant.

* * *

ALSO RECOMMENDED: The manager, Saul Kaplan, and the treasurers, Bill Landrigan and Hugo Lundgren of the Colonial. They conduct the famous old theater's front-of-the-house as if they had a real love for the grand old legitimate stand—and as if they loved the customers, too . . . It might be said that the outstanding company managers and press-agents of the theater have a feeling akin to the one expressed here . . . Nick Alberti, who drives a brown and white cab and gets you where you are going with a minimum of fuss, talk, and wasted motion . . . For that matter, almost every driver who sits the box of the same company's backs is expert and considerate.

* * *

INCIDENTALLY, Boston bookmakers are not paying off on those recurring "consolation daily doubles," or at least, they haven't been recognizing the track's method of computing such events . . . If you bet with a book, and the first half of the daily double wins with the second race choice being scratched at the gate, you are credited only with the original bet . . . There may be a change in these tactics, of course . . . The "consolation double" is something new, although there have been two of them in a week in New England racing . . . Jimmy Foxx's legion of Boston friends are going to hear some good news about the grand old ballplayer before very long, and we hope they read about it here first . . . We know the story, but it's one of those "off the record" pledges.

Week-End Trip For President

WASHINGTON, Sept 22 (INS)—President Truman left Washington today for a week-end stag party of several hundred Congressmen, government officials and Democratic leaders on Jefferson island in Chesapeake bay.

Fishing and recreation were the principal items on the agenda.

Mr. Truman was accompanied by members of his staff and reporters. He will return tomorrow evening.

Grandstand Quarterbacks Hamper Gen. MacArthur

By AUSTEN LAKE

NOW SCHOLARS WHAT IS A PARADOX? Well kids, a paradox is fancy langwidge for boudoir-softies with lace on their pants who blow razzberries from the grandstand at the touchdown tactics of the team captain. It's an old American custom! It's when a lot of tea-cozy athletes who don't know a bloody nose from a split lip scream scandal at the fullback as he bucks tackle for the winning score.

Austen Lake

It's when a portion of our chair-borne U. S. press, radio and politicians holler "sissy" at a bone-hard, battle-tough gent like Gen. Douglas MacArthur for what they call "custard-pie policies" in occupied Japan.

MacArthur has fought a smart, tough war. He doesn't look like a man who would enforce a soft, stupid peace. As a long-distance Jap-hater who preached martial realism during the early walk-up to war, his recent experiences have not increased his affection for the brown runt or beguiled his faith that the Jap's promise is any more trustworthy today than it was yesterday. I don't believe MacArthur is a sap for a Jap.

If therefore, he estimates that his occupational need in six months is only 200,000 soldiers, that, for my money, is what he will need. For the grim, growly man realizes that his army will be outnumbered by 20 ex-Jap soldiers to each of his own. But he expects, within six months, to collect all Jap arms and war-gear to the last few rifles and grenades.

He Has the Situation in Hand!

I AM ONE WHO HAS LEARNED in the school of hard war reality to trust the instincts and actions of combat officers. I'll take their judgment on military matters and give you the rear echelon and civilians and politicians. What troubles we've had have usually germinated there.

So MacArthur knows that, once Japan is disarmed, a battalion of Sherman tanks can wreck any abortive insurrection. Or a squadron of bombers can smash any ill-armed ground concentration. Or one atomic bomb will chill any Jap rebellion. He has his situation well in hand!

This is the first, precarious phase of occupation, the process of disarming a sullen enemy whose armament and strength the general has undoubtedly audited to the last gun and machine. That much is a mere matter of military intelligence and bookkeeping. And, shrewdly, he has placed the burden of arms collection and coralling war criminals on the Jap authorities, whom he can and will hold accountable.

As a pragmatist in a stern school he realizes that a post-surrender invasion of Japan, unlike that where we battered our way into Germany with a visual show of force, requires a tactful, preliminary deployment of his troops and a cautious drawing of the Japanese sting. But when he has impounded Japan's weapons, neutralized its soldiery and deployed his own troops, that will be a hoss of a different hue.

MacArthur can then begin the hard, drastic phase of occupation. He can turn down his screw-bonds by dismantling or destroying heavy Jap industries to the level of bare civil necessity. He can reshape Jap monopolistic economy and remove it from the strangle-hold of a few controlling families. He can whittle down Jap ship building to coastal freighters and vessels of small tonnage. He can control the quantity and nature of Jap imports and prevent accumulated stock piles of war potentials.

Almost any farm boy knows that Japan depends for industrial existence on raw imports from abroad. She imports pig iron to make steel for her guns, planes, tanks and ships. She imports scientific metals, lubricating oils and gasoline, cottons and essential chemicals. Without a large maritime navy and access to these foreign supplies she is as unwarlike as an unshucked oyster.

MacArthur Plays Oriental's Game

THIS IS A MERE MILITARY ABC to a man like MacArthur. The intelligent Jap knows he knows it. But if the Jap is inscrutable to us so are we equally inscrutable to the Jap. They are confirmed in the belief that we are inherent suckers, and our national reputation for gullibility is such that most Japs believe we can be hoodwinked into confidence, faith in Japan's remorse and a swift evacuation. The Jap relies on this guile to recover and strike again. But that's where the wily Jap is gullible! You don't imagine that so cute a fox as MacArthur will fall sucker to that sly syrup.

At the moment MacArthur appears to be out-orientaling the oriental with deceptive surface softness which conceals his hard, underlying core of realism. At the moment he is maneuvering like a smart ring pugilist who feints and jockeys his man into a cramped corner before delivering the paralyzing punch. But don't expect him to telegraph his plan—not until he has his enemy flat on his spine with his head dreamlessly in a black bag. That time is not yet. But the time is soon and sudden. Watch!

I would conjecture, and my three cents' worth is as good as any, that if MacArthur's innermost thoughts could be examined today he would admit that plan for the Jap is not his immediate major worry. Biggest bother is the mob of grandstand quarterbacks in the USA—that pedantic wing of vociferous press, radio and politics which is storming him with second guess signals and distracting blurts.

As a people we Americans like to regard ourselves as the most sporting nation extant. Yet here we are with the ball on the goal, snorting rude doubts, phoney advice and second guesses while our team is huddling for the big climactic rush. Don't you think we should wait to see whether the touchdown is scored before we accuse the captain of fumbling the ball?

Malden Host to Montreal High

By MURRAY KRAMER

MALDEN HIGH STADIUM, Sept. 22—Some 10,000 curious fans turned out here this afternoon to see the first attempt at international football ever played in this section with Malden High as host to the High School of Montreal. American rules prevailed although it was agreed that both clubs could use a 12th man in the second half to conform with the Canadian rules.

FIRST PERIOD

The Canadian youngsters were completely outclassed, outweighed and at sea during the first period. Malden had possession of the ball just three times. The first time they went on the offensive the Blue and Gold marched 38 yards to score on four plays with Carroll going over from the eight. The next time Malden fumbled on the first play but the third time they went to the 10 as the quarter ended.

Score—Malden 6, Montreal 0.

SECOND PERIOD

Instead of waiting for the second half, the 12th man was added at the start of this period. He was a fith back known as a flying ence. The Golden Tornado, startwing. But it made little differing on the Montreal 10, went over in one play with Morelli carrying. Sicarello converted, Malden then fumbled away a couple of chances but with a minute left to play Morelli hit Carroll with two passes to eat up 25 yards and result in another TD. Sicarello again converted.

Score—Malden 20, Montreal 0

Dave Ferriss Inspiration To Wounded Veterans

By JACK CONWAY

Dave Ferriss will try to pitch his 22nd victory of the season for the Red Sox when he opposes the Yankees at Fenway Park tomorrow afternoon. It will be Dave Ferriss Day, and it is expected that 30,000 persons will turn out to pay tribute to the youthful Sox sensation who has won the title of the rookie of the year.

I hope that those fans who booed Ferriss when he had a bad day on the mound will also go to Fenway Park tomorrow afternoon. They may be able to gain some satisfaction if they now cheer the former air corps member whom they cut deeply with their cruel attack.

If Ferriss does not win another ball game this season, he is entitled to the highest recognition from Boston fans for the grand manner in which he has accredited himself on the diamond this season. Ferriss joined the Red Sox at a time when the club was floundering around trying to decide just what it was going to do.

Ferriss, despite the fact he was suffering from asthma and sinus, went in and gave everything he had to his ball club. He pitched his heart out and furnished the spark that for a time enabled the Sox to remain with the leaders.

It was too much to expect that Ferriss alone could keep the Sox up in the flag fight. He got very little help from some of the other members of the club, but he still carried on as best he could.

I do not believe Dave has a single regret for the physical beating he at times gave himself so that the Sox could win.

I know he could forget the long hours he spent in the dressing room taking special treatments for his physical condition as he gave every ounce of energy in his body to help the Sox cause.

Ferriss' task would have been easier if he had received the assistance of another great pitcher who could win 20 games. If Tex Hughson had been discharged from the Army and was back with the Sox, Joe Cronin would not have had so many headaches this season.

Serviceman's Hero

Every week this writer receives many newspapers that are edited by servicemen stationed in all parts of the world. There is the little mimeographed paper that Harry Storin, Jr., of Springfield has got out for two years as American fighting men have advanced in the Pacific from island to island and then reached the shores of Japan.

There is the army newspaper "Yank" on which Tom Sheehan and Joe McCarthy have served with so much distinction. There is the air corps newspaper in California which carries a sports column by Sam Brogna, formerly of our sports staff. There is the tabloid newspaper at the U. S. Naval convalescent hospital at Sea Gate, N. Y. for which Jack Jr., writes sports and of the rehabiliation of veterans.

All these newspapers have carried the story of Dave Ferriss. More than any other ball player, Ferriss sparks Servicemen. He makes them feel that even if they are suffering from some physical disability when they get out of service that they, too, can reach the heights.

Tom Sheehan was sent to Boston by Managing Editor Joe McCarthy of the Yank to write a special feature article on Ferriss.

My only regret is that Ferris will not be pitching in a World Series game at Fenway Park tomorrow afternoon rather than opposing the Yanks in a regular league game.

If he were, servicemen everywhere would get the detailed story of the contest over the Gillette broadcast. They would hear Bill Corum give the color of the game, and they would feel they were in there pitching with Dave.

Ferriss Great Gift

There will be many gifts for Ferriss tomorrow, while many glowing statements will be made about his many accomplishments. The Red Sox management is expected to announce Ferris had been given a bonus which he richly deserves and which he has earned by his courage, intelligence and perseverance under the most trying conditions.

None of the gifts Ferriss will receive will compare with the one he has given to veterans of this war, and to many persons who due to unfortunate injuries and physical conditions were unable to march away to battle as the flag flew in the breezes and the bands played stirring martial music.

It is a gift of faith in one's ability to accomplis anything if he has the will to win. It is a gift which has been deep in Dave's soul and which stood by him when he was a member of the air corps and later when he returned to baseball.

It is a gift that enables him to carry on to victory no matter how great the obstacles may be.

And tomorrow Dave Ferriss is going to give this gift to millions of men who are trying to readjust their lives. As I think of this, I shall not be so concerned as to whether Ferriss beats the Yanks or not. I shall know he has given a greater gift than the mere winning of a ball game.

Allied Generals See Berlin Grid Row

BERLIN, Sept. 22 (AP)—American football, with all its homergrown trappings—including fisticuffs and a near riot—made its bow in war torn Berlin today in a "bomb bowl" game won by the 1105th Combat Engineer group over Group Control Council, 18 to 7. A crowd of 8000 persons, including American, Russian and French generals, saw the game.

The disturbance came midway of the fourth quarter when the two coaches, Captain Charles Nardello of Astoria, N. Y., and Capt. Edward Pexa, Montgomery, Minn., charged onto the gridiron protesting a decision. The headlinesman, Captain Paul C. Turner, of New York, ordered them off. Words were passed and Turner tried to take a swing at Nardello. Players intervened before any blows were struck.

On the next play players from both teams began mixing it on the field while yelling GIs swarmed down on the field to participate. MPs separated the belligerents within a few minutes. There was no further demonstration.

The Engineers took the lead in the second quarter when Fred Garber, of Lansdowne, Pa., broke the middle of the line and ran 24 yards for a touchdown. The Groupers went ahead, 7 to 6, in the third period on a 29-yard forward pass from Joe Bessinger, Detroit, to John Cook, Tillman, S. C., and the extra point converted by Fullback Charlie Johnson, of Greenville, S. C.

The Engineers bounced back to win in the last quarter on touchdowns by Halfback Jim Chambers, of Brooklyn, and Fullback John Olliveri, of Jersey City. Chambers went over on a short line buck. Olliveri picked up a fumble and ran 30 yards.

After the game, played on the field of the Berlin Soccer Club, German civilians swarmed into the stands to pick up cigarette butts.

For Russian Gen. Shabalin, who never before saw a football game, it didn't make much sense, but he stood on his chair like everybody else on close plays. Head of the Russian economic mission in Berlin, he followed the play from the press box asking through his comely young woman interpreter about the mysteries of the sport.

He was in good spirits over the victory of the red-shirted engineers, however. "Sure, they were best," he joshed afterwards. "because they wore the right colors."

Hagg, Andersson Bow In 4:04.8 Mile Whirl

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 22 (AP)—Lennart Strand, unheralded until a month ago when he defeated Arne Andersson for Sweden's 1500 title, proved it was no fluke yesterday when he defeated both Andersson and Gunder Hagg in the featured mile here. Strand was timed in 4:04.8 with Andersson second in 4:07.2.

Hagg, who holds the world record of 4:01.4 was fourth behind France's Marcel Hansenne.

Boston Fans Buy Ferriss Car

By BILL GRIMES

Playing a single game this afternoon and a doubleheader tomorrow with the New York Yankees, who threw a block on the Senators yesterday, the Red Sox wind up their 1945 home engagements.

Despite the fact that the Red Sox won their last two games via the shut out routes, the fans did not break down the fences to sit in on this afternoon's tilt.

But, it will be a different story tomorrow, which will be Dave Ferriss Day. Weather permitting, Fenway Park will be jammed tomorrow. Although every box seat has been sold, there are hundreds of reserve seat tickets available.

In all probability, the "Dave Ferriss Day" will be the finest testimonial ever staged in these parts for a ball player. Ed "Smoky" Kelleher and "Whispering" Bill Barrett, along with Frank Fallon, can take bows for their tireless efforts.

Accompanied by "Smoky" Kelleher, Dave Ferriss visited the Ford Motor Co. plant yesterday and inspected the Lincoln Zephyr, which he will be presented with tomorrow. Ferriss' car was made for Mrs. Henry Ford and is ready for delivery. The license plate is No. 93923. Dave received his driver's license, after taking his test yesterday in Somerville.

Mexican Boxer On Callahan Card

The eight fighters involved in the Callahan A. C. tournament next Monday night at Mechanics Building today were reported fit for the four 10-round bouts.

Fred Cabral, Cambridge, vs. Baudelio Valencia, Mexico City; Bobby Zollo, Providence, vs. Benny Singleton, Waterbury, Ct.; Tommy Moore, South Boston, vs. Tom Murray, Montreal; and John Cesario, North End-Hartford, vs. Oscar St. Pierre are the bouts.

Cabral meets the welterweight champion of Mexico. Cabral, recently discharged from the Navy, kayoed Ernie Forte in seven rounds recently.

Zollo has 15 straight kayo wins, his last victim being Willard Buckless, Saugus, in 4 rounds. Singleton is the former N. E. lightweight champ who grew out of the class and was forced to abdicate his title.

Cesario, coached by Willie Pep, has won 34 professional fights. Moore and Murray will be in their third and "rubber" entanglement.

A right hand punch that spilled Charles Lewis, of New York, to the canvas with only seconds remaining in the 10th round turned defeat into victory for Gus Mell, and won him a decision in the feature bout at the Garden last night.

George LaRover, of Philadelphia, won the vote of all three officials in the 10-round semi-final over Sammy Mamone, 139, Greenwich, Ct.

In the opening bouts, all six rounders, which went the distance, Joe Albanese, 157, East Boston, won over Al Barbosa, 157½, of Cape Cod; Johnny Priest, 138, of Cambridge, defeated Eddie Petrone, 142, of Philadelphia, and Maurice Lavigne, 147, of Brooklyn; former goal-tender of the Hershey Bears collected the award from Jim Pettie, 150, of Woburn.

N Y. School Coaches Strike for Pay Rise

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (INS)—High school sports in New York city were affected today by a sort of sitdown strike on the part of their coaches. The Public School Athletic Coaches Ass'n announced that a meeting had reaffirmed its decision to halt coaching activities until adequate compensation is provided.

They are demanding a pay schedule ranging from $600 for gridiron mentors down to $100 for tennis and golf.

On: The Woman Question
I was very pleased when a taxi driver assured me that he thought women were better drivers than men. "Not only that," he said, "but better at a lot of things they never get credit for. It was a good day for the world when women came out of the kitchen."
Heaven knows I am not a militant feminist, but like the taxi man, I believe that many women who have been responsible for much that is of lasting good have gone unrecognized by the world.
Think of those magnificent pioneer women who crossed the vast and terrible plains of the West in the last century. Their courage was at least equal to their husbands'. One reason I so like doing Rose Wilder Lane's "Let the Hurricane Roar" is because it emphasizes so vividly the important part women played in the settling of this country.
